

Ask Dave

- Q. I heard at the truck stop that my Chiropractor can't do my DOT Medical Exams anymore. Is this true? He's my Brother-In-Law!
- A. Yes, the U.S.DOT has tightened the qualification requirements for medical professionals who perform DOT physicals. When this happens in 2011 it is likely that many current providers will be unable to offer these physicals. This is a good thing to assure that all driver physicals are done by people with the right qualifications.

Got a question for Dave? Email: dave@isri.org